MEETINGS AND CONFERENCES

The Community of Madrid is the ideal place for the travelling business person. It owes this to an exceptional batch of facilities and infrastructures – modern, well communicated and with all the necessary services – which can host any kind of international event.

Madrid is one of the most comfortable places around the world for trade fairs, conferences and international events; it is also the main national tourist destination for business people.

The ever increasing offer of exhibition sites and conference centres adds up to other advantages for the business trade such as new hotel places, an efficient public transport service, and the significant cultural interest of Madrid. All the companies in the city realize how important it is to hold events of this kind as their activities are widely publicized and their respective images enhanced.

IFEMA

Feria de Madrid (Ifema) is one of the most relevant institutions in the business world, and its premises host many of the largest trade fairs that take place in the city. It reaches up to over 1.1 million square metres of exhibition per year, featuring some 37,000 companies and nearly 4 million visitors.

Some of its most impressive facilities, apart from the ten pavilions dedicated to the exhibitions, are an office building with a meeting area and an auditorium for 600 people, a parking lot for 14,000 cars, and a great 10,000 square metre conference centre.

Feria de Madrid also features an ample variety of services for the people taking part in the conferences as well as for the trade fair visitors; it also includes restaurants, financing institutions, and all the technical equipment and means necessary for organising the conferences.
